Administrative Order No. ____ 2
Series of 2008

SUBJECT: Guidelines on the Transfer of DSWD Residents to other Social Work Agencies (SWAs)

A. RATIONALE

The Department of Social Welfare and Development (DSWD) is the primary welfare agency of the government mandated to set standards, accredit and provide consultative services to public and private institutions, organizations and persons engaged in social welfare activities, and monitor performance and compliance to standards by institutions, organizations and persons engaged in social welfare activities, both public and private.

At present, there are sixty one (61) residential care facilities being managed by the Department. Aside from being a service provider, DSWD is also a regulatory office, where it is mandated to register, license and accredit Social Welfare and Development Agencies (SWDAs) and Social Work Agencies (SWAs) providing social welfare and development programs and services to the poor, the disadvantaged and marginalized individuals.

As of September 11, 2007 DSWD has licensed a total of 2,135 SWADs and SWAs. Of the said number, 264 have been accredited with 145 providing residential care service. The license and accreditation certificates issued by the Department to the concerned Social Work Agency is an assurance that these SWAs have met the required standards and are capable of providing quality service to its target beneficiaries.

Further, through this initiative, the Department will pursue its efforts in strengthening partnership and collaboration with SWAs through the development of standards, programs and interventions appropriate to the type of residents being served, and provision of technical assistance and capability building among others. Said transfer is also in recognition of SWAs potentials in the delivery of quality residential care service in response to the recommendations made by Mr. Joseph Hoffman in his study of the DSWD residential care facilities which is, "to consider using Non-Government Organizations as exclusive providers of residential care in selected areas of service and/or selected regions.

This is also in preparation for the devolution of DSWD program and services to concerned LGUs and the provision of appropriate programs and services to clients with special needs that are not available in DSWD facilities .

It is therefore in this context, that in the event that DSWD deemed it necessary to transfer the residents, primary consideration should always be the best interest and welfare of the residents and ensure that their rights are protected and quality services are delivered.

Hence, these guidelines are developed to operationalize a system of transfer of residents from DSWD residential care facilities to other social work agencies (SWAs) duly licensed and accredited by DSWD.

MANDATE AND LEGAL BASES

1. PD 603 or the Child and Youth Welfare Code – the code recognizes the rights of the child to a wholesome family life that will provide him with love, care and understanding, and it is also recognized that in the event that her/his parents or guardian fail or unable to provide him with his fundamental rights, the child has the right to the care, assistance and protection of the State.
2. Republic Act 7160, otherwise known as the Local government Code of 1991 which transfers the responsibility for the delivery of basic services and related facilities to Local Governments. It also promotes the establishment and operation of People's Organizations (PO's) and Non-government Organizations (NGOs) to become partners in the pursuit of local autonomy.
3. MC no. 22 s 2004 "Policy Paper on De-Institutionalization of Children emphasizes Alternative family care as one of the significant interventions through adoption, foster care, legal guardianship or residential care, although the latter is considered as the last resort, when no other options are available. The policy also stressed the detrimental effects of institutionalization to the emotional, psychosocial, mental and physical development of children.
4. A.O 6, Omnibus Guidelines on the Registration and Licensing of Social Welfare and Development Agencies and Accreditation of Social Welfare and Development Programs and Services, as Amended, stipulates the DSWD's regulatory function through registration, licensing and accreditation of SWDAs engaged in social welfare and development activities.
5. A.O 11, series of 2007 Revised Standards on Residential Care Service states that "the Department set standards and provides consultative services to enable institutions, organizations and persons engaged in social welfare activities in both public and private settings to comply with said standards and monitor compliance”.
